Star*Mate Composite Report

Introduction

"The meeting of two personalities is like the contact of two chemical substances: if there is any reaction, both are transformed." Carl Jung

When we enter into a relationship with another person, we become a part of something greater than ourselves, the relationship. We are lifted out of ourselves. And it is through relationship, that we can truly see who we are as individuals, both the light and dark. So it is where it is most possible to develop personally, professionally and spiritually.

Astrology, derived from the Ancient Greek word astrologia meaning "telling of the stars," affords us information that usually remains hidden. Having a clear overview and understanding can empower us to achieve harmony and wholeness through a relationship and guide us through any troubled or dangerous waters. The composite (or relationship) chart can tell us what a relationship looks like inside, where we meet and where we don't. It shows us what experiences are possible together, what is easy or difficult. The composite chart will reveal the pattern and magic of a relationship when people come together. It is special and unique, just as the individuals who are relating, and ceases to exist when they are no longer together.

We long to participate in the magic and upliftment of relationship and we want to avoid the challenges and fears that it also brings. With the blueprint of our relationship in hand, we can gain and apply antidotes to the pains of relationship & celebrate more consciously the delights. Sometimes this means we can grow a common garden variety relationship into an exotic flower that can be appreciated and benefit all, including ourselves. And sometimes it precludes anything happening at all except the chaos of weeds. The choice all depends on the individuals involved, their goals, values and focus and what they do with the blueprint.

There is also a Mystery at the heart of every relationship that is not even revealed by the 'telling' of astrology. This is the uncharted territory of which even astrology can only allude to as Love or Fate.

These are the strengths and limitations of the composite chart and this interpretation attempts to empower you both with the blueprint and tools to guide your way in your relationship.

"The ritual of marriage is not simply a social event; it is a crossing of threads in the fabric of fate. Many strands bring the couple and their families together and spin their lives into a fabric that is woven on their children." Portuguese-Jewish Wedding Ceremony.

Chapter 1: Important Issues and Themes in your Relationship

"Intimate relationships cannot substitute for a life plan. But to have any meaning or viability at all, a life plan must include intimate relationships." Harriet Lerner

Every relationship is as individual, as are its participants! This chapter looks at the very bedrock of your relationship and identifies what your potential is when you are together. Each relationship has issues that need to be dealt with on an ongoing basis and different ways of dealing with them. There are also certain areas of life within which individuals find themselves when they are together. If the essence of a relationship is healthy and positive, there is nothing that you cannot accomplish in life and then the relationship is self-renewing and fulfilling. It is important to identify what in essence you have together that you can then build on. Then everything else is bonus!

Sixth/Twelfth House Emphasis in Composite Chart (4 or more planets):

Unfortunately there are challenges in this relationship as regards equality between you. However if you have come together to help each other and others outside the relationship, then that will be a positive outlet. One of you may be incapacitated in some way, whether physically or emotionally so then the need for support is integral and should provide a source of strength. However if you are looking for a relationship of equals then this is not for you. This would be a good relationship for employer and employee, or a service related relationship.

Sun in 6th or 12th house in composite chart:

Unfortunately it may be difficult to have an equal basis between you in this relationship. One of you may be involved in helping the other, for some reason and if so then this should serve you both well. However even in this case, the person that is serving the other would need to be monitoring their own needs and making sure that they fulfill them, by other means. One person may have to suppress their own ego to keep this relationship going and obviously that cannot usually happen on a long term basis. If this is a relationship between an employee and employer or guru and student then this dynamic would be more appropriate and less difficult. However other positive factors would need to be present in the chart to make this sustainable for both parties long term. Whichever person appears to be the more active partner may identify much more with the helping and sacrificing strength.

Moon in 5th or 11th house in composite chart:

This relationship will have a lot of heartfelt feelings. You will care about yourselves, others and any creative ventures that arise from the relationship. There is a childlike quality to the feelings that are engendered and therefore you may find it easy to play, have fun and be entertained by each other. It is easy in this relationship to stay connected to your hearts' desires and this will keep the relationship at its best. The more receptive partner may identify much more with the strong feelings of love, joy and playfulness.

Sun Opposition Pluto:

You are involved with each other intensely and that can trigger off huge change you and others. It is important that consciousness is brought to bear here so that you don't degenerate to manipulation of each other or those connected to you. The more active partner may then identify much more with this obsession and intensity.

Sun Semisquare Saturn:

The structure and foundation of your relationship may stress your sense of purpose as a couple. Those around you may burden you with responsibilities and challenge your sense of value in each other causing stalemates. If you relate more to being the active partner then you may identify much more with this struggle with pressures.

Moon Conjunct Mars:

You feel comfortable with the emotional passion and energy in this relationship. You tend to be emotionally spontaneous with each other and this could be an intense sexual relationship. The more receptive partner may identify much more with this emotional passion.

Moon Square Neptune:

You may find yourselves emotionally confused or disappointed by the lack of boundary keeping within this relationship. It is important that you have some physical time apart to help clarify who you are as individuals. It is also important to communicate your feelings clearly and listen to each other, do not automatically think you know what the other wants. The more receptive partner may identify much more with this lack of personal boundaries.

Moon Sextile Saturn:

You have opportunities for building stability and trust into your personal relationship. Family and friends may assist you in feeling secure with each other. One of you will play the role of the more receptive partner and may identify much more with the feeling of emotional security.

Moon Semisextile Mercury:

You are able to talk together as you both value communication and understanding each other's viewpoint. You are also aware of what motivates each other's feelings and how that can affect what you say to each other. If you are the receptive partner in the relationship it will promote the ease of communication.

Moon Semisextile Chiron:

You feel instinctively comfortable with each other as you both value expressing your personal vulnerabilities. You also understand what motivates each other's emotional insecurities. Whichever person appears to be the more receptive partner may identify much more with this instinctive comfort.

Moon Quincunx Uranus:

You will experience challenges in maintaining your individual freedom while still feeling comfortable emotionally. You will need to be creative about developing this relationship in its own form to make sure that both parties have enough individual space and enough relating. The more receptive partner may identify much more with the challenge of finding a balancing between closeness and aloneness.

Chapter 2: How You Complement One Another

"Passion makes the world go round. Love just makes it a safer place." Ice T, The Ice Opinion

It feels like a kind of magic when people are attracted to each other, about which we can only wonder. If it is not there, we are not drawn to continue connecting with each other. Depending on the strength and quality of this attraction it is easy, delightful or compulsive to connect. When we are in a long term relationship with someone it provides a pull that brings us back together through more difficult times. It is the desire adhesive that sticks us together; otherwise we would easily drift away from each other due to all the pressures of modern life. This magnetism, lack of it or repulsion is the subtle energy that binds us, or not, in relationship with others. That attraction can comprise of sexual desire, physical appreciation and feelings of love and warmth that are easily accessible. It helps us make the compromises that are necessary in any partnership and encourages our collaborating and co-operating with one another. As a result it is an extremely important factor in the fate and enjoyment of any kind of relationship.

Venus in 1st or 7th house in composite chart:

This is a loving romantic partnership and you enjoy being together. You feel a harmony and joy in this relationship, which can also touch others. You feel happier being together than apart. You may also be a role model for others for a loving relationship. Because you care for each other, you will try to make each other happy whilst together.

Mars in 5th or 11th house in composite chart:

You will be passionate in your sexual expression and may be actively involved in some creative work together. You love to have fun, play sports, pursue entertainment or just do things together. The joy of this relationship is in the activities that you share and you need dynamic and physical expression of the love you share together. There is a lightness in your physical expression of energy and sexuality.

Venus Opposition Saturn:

You have a committed love for each other but may find the relationship or your partner very controlling. There may be a swinging back and forth in how much value you both put on the stability and security being together. You can certainly stay together for a long time and at least long enough to learn lessons from this relationship. However at times, your sense of joy and fulfillment in love may be seriously curtailed. You may also struggle at times with the lack of spontaneity between you both or your spontaneous expression of love may be mismatched and your partner not receptive when you are and vice versa.

Venus Trine Mars:

Your love and passion flow easily together and you may take it for granted a bit. However this is a wonderful link within a relationship and gives a lot of romantic & passionate energy in being together. Your sexual expression naturally flows with your love and is easily regenerated. You just fire each other up! This also works well for any kind of work you do together, you just love being together.

Venus Semisextile Pluto:

You easily feel deep love for each other and value the transformative aspect of that love. You are also aware of what motivates you both in your desires and need for empowerment. As a result you are able to keep the profundity and intensity of your love alive.

Mars Square Neptune:

Your energies within this relationship may tend to be leached from their original output by your imagination and sensitivity to your partner. This applies to your sexual and physical energy for work and projects you are both involved in. By identifying what your needs are independently and then coming back together with that clarity, some compromise may be reached that will have a conscious intent to benefit both. There may be a conflict between where you both want to put your energies whilst together, as in spiritual or compassionate work or highly imaginative creative work.

Mars Quincunx Pluto:

You may find it difficult to handle the intensity of the sexual and physical side of this relationship. You will need to find a creative balance between asserting your will and desires and regenerating and renewing your energies between you.

Asc. Conjunct Uranus:

This is a very individual and free relationship that needs to be created with the context of both partners. You need a lot of space and freedom to explore the world as well as each other for this relationship to work well. You were drawn to each other magnetically and suddenly. However if you do not maintain a sense of your own individuality whilst relating, it is likely to finish as suddenly.

Asc. Opposition Mercury:

There is a very strong focus on communication and ideas in this partnership. You may find a comrade-in-arms type of relationship develop between you. You share each other's thoughts and are able to listen to each other. You both appreciate movement and any sort of boredom would be anathema to the relationship. Networking with others may also be an important aspect of this relationship.

Asc. Opposition Jupiter:

This relationship will feel as if blessed by heaven and you are incredibly optimistic and positive about life when together. You may share similar interests in personal development, social or learning values and they may be the strongest focus of the relationship. Those around you will be blessed by your bountiful generosity and optimism as well. This would be a very good marriage!

Asc. Opposition Chiron:

This is an incredibly strong instinctually binding relationship. You will feel a pull towards each other and will be able to heal past relationship wounds together. They will emerge readily when you relate but the capacity for healing them will also be there. You should both gain a lot of learning about yourselves and the relationship and may also share this philosophy and help to others around you.

MC Square Mercury:

This relationship, although significant will experience challenges to its core from your ideas and communications. Your individual ideas may differ from the collaborative ideas that support relationship and your styles of communicating may be different so that it is difficult to understand each other. You will need to work at keeping balance between your individual ideas and styles of communicating with a more collaborative manner to serve the relationship and this should make for a healthy relationship. Listening will be a good start!

MC Square Uranus:

This relationship, although significant will experience challenges to its core from your individual needs for freedom and independence! There may be a conflict with how much space and freedom you want as individuals and what maintains the intimacy of the relating. You will need to keep a balance between independence and intimacy needs and this should make for a healthy relationship.

MC Square Chiron:

This relationship, although significant will experience challenges to its core from your instinctual responses. There may be conflict with the past relationship wounds that the connection brings up within you. You will need to keep a balance between your instinctual responses and attitudes and the wholeness of the relationship and this should make for a healthy relationship.

MC Trine Moon:

This is a significant relationship as your sense of comfort and feeling flows easily with the integrity and core of the relationship. You experience harmony just being together and could easily live together. The role of more receptive partner is one that one of you falls into and you may then identify much more with this ease and comfort with the integrity of the relationship.

Chapter 3: How You Communicate

"Listen. Do not have an opinion while you listen because frankly, your opinion doesn't hold much water outside of Your Universe. Just listen. Listen until their brain has been twisted like a dripping towel and what they have to say is all over the floor." Hugh Elliott, Standing Room Only weblog, 02-14-2003

"When in doubt, tell the truth." Mark Twain (1835 - 1910)

The bridge that links us as individuals and saves us from our isolation is communication and so it is a key piece to any relationship. The good news is that anyone can learn communication skills if they are interested in bridging that gap. One of the main skills is listening, and of course we can listen not only with our ears but on all levels. And the other key skill is truth telling. These two basic keys are the best foundation for any kind of good relationship and guarantee that you can continue to grow and develop together.

In some relationships we easily develop good communication patterns but in others there are inherent stresses or resistances to healthy sharing on this level. We then have to work harder to maintain optimum communication levels. So when starting any new relationship, it would bode us well if we are initially challenged, to be realistic about how much effort will need to be expended in developing consciousness and healthy habits for the future relationship. Then we can choose whether this is worthy of our effort or not.

Be forewarned that the largest common cause of relationship breakdown is when there is a breakdown in communication. Then the bridge that everything else must cross to link us has fallen into the crevasse between us. Bringing consciousness to this area in all your relationships will pay off dividends with healthy, happy and flourishing connections with others.

Mercury in 6th or 12th house in composite chart:

Your ideas and communications are geared to how to serve each other and address issues of work. You like to organize your daily routines and habits and possibly focus on issues of health and discipline. This is a very functional position and attention to all the details will ensure that plans go smoothly. However you may also need to lighten the tone occasionally, as too much focus on this area can become boring and pedantic for any type of relationship. One difficulty to this position is that due to the inequality of your ideas there may be a tendency not to be frank or honest with each other and that can be as harmful long term as not listening to each other. If you are involved in helping someone or work together, then this is a wonderful position to ensure that everything works well.

Mercury Conjunct Chiron:

Your ideas can come from a very instinctive level and you are able to discuss and think about basic issues that result from the relationship. Old communication wounds from past relationships may surface to be addressed and healed together. Human vulnerabilities are the focus and topic of your conversations and together you have the potential to bridge the gap between minds and bodies. There will be a deep sense of meaning that can also result from your conversations and sharing of ideas together.

Mercury Opposition Uranus:

Your ideas and communication styles may tend to swing backwards and forwards from relationship oriented to independent and freedom oriented. You may find that one or both of you may identify with either end of this polarity. Generally your focus is on the overview of any situation and the ultimate truth and so this connection can promote enlightening & stimulating thoughts and conversations. You may need to bring some human empathy to this position to soften any hard truths that may spontaneously erupt from you both.

Mercury Semisextile Saturn:

You value the stability and reliability of your ideas and communications that you share. You are also aware of what motivates your commitment with those. You can therefore plan and organize sharing of your serious thoughts and responsibilities.

Chapter 4: Challenges to Relating

"I love being married. It's so great to find that one special person you want to annoy for the rest of your life." Rita Rudner

In some cases the challenges to relating are easily transformed and then integrated and in others they feel more like stumbling towards the eventual collapse of the relationship! Challenges in life can be important to help us remain conscious in our participation with each other, rather than falling into a state of unconscious participation that allows our complexes full expression! However there is a middle line, a relationship cannot be all about work, but needs an element of relaxation so that we can rest and restore ourselves whilst together. If this place of refuge is not available then we cannot and will not persist with the development of a mature relationship. So it is important that any relationship is not overburdened with challenges and lacking any ease, joy and fun.

There are many kinds of challenges within relationships; these occur mainly in the areas of communication, sexuality, finances, security and trust to name just a few. All these challenges can be alleviated and bridged through clear communication. Trust can be established if you know that both parties are committed to growing the relationship. That is the foundation underneath any relationship, the willingness to go the distance through good times or bad, so that when life intervenes to 'spoil our fun' we have tools and a sense of perseverance to persist.

It is up to the individuals whether the challenges within their relationships are workable and ultimately elevating or whether they are more trouble than they are worth.

Saturn in 1st or 7th house in composite chart:

This is a strongly committed relationship and there is a sense of duty towards each other and to being together. You may feel instantly committed to being together and find 'all exits blocked'. There is definitely a strong desire for structure and foundation within this partnership and roles need to be identified clearly, whether this is a business partnership or marriage. You need to be careful to make sure that you don't overburden yourselves with responsibilities or duties. There are definitely issues as regards partnership that need to be worked on and developed together. This is the underlying purpose to stay together for a certain period of time. Be careful that fear isn't the underlying theme that binds you together, to the sacrifice of more fulfilling reasons.

Saturn Semisextile Chiron:

Accepting and healing past relationship wounds that are exposed and the commitment within the relationship work together. You hold a high value on both. You are also in touch with what motivates your healing and trust.

Saturn Quincunx Uranus:

You may find it difficult to give each other freedom and independence within the structure of this relationship. You will need to find a creative balance between your need for safety and your needs for independent movement.

North Node in 6th or 12th house in composite chart:

You will be drawn to each other for service, healing or spiritual purposes. There is a fateful quality to the inequality that you will experience together. Within the context of this work, you will discover the areas that need to be developed or worked upon as individuals within this relationship. These lessons will tend to be focused on service, health and spiritual matters.

True Node Conjunct Pluto:

You will feel fatefully and compulsively drawn to each other. There is a quality of compulsion about being together and empowerment issues may surface. Within the context of this powerful connection, you will discover the areas that need to be developed or worked upon as individuals within this relationship. These lessons will tend to be focused on power, sexuality, compulsion and control.

True Node Opposition Sun:

You will feel as if you are meant to be together and that the relationship is your main focus. You can work together and will be as a functioning whole relationship. Within the context of the relationship purpose, you will discover the areas that need to be developed or worked upon as individuals within this relationship. These lessons will tend to be focused on the essence of relating and how are as a couple in the world. The role of more active partner is one that one of you falls into and you may then identify much more with this fateful feeling of purpose.

Black Moon Lilith in 4th or 10th house in composite chart:

This relationship has a deep soulful connection to its very foundation. You will identify with roles building together your personal lives or business. However you will tend to be very individual and creative within those roles. This relationship although significant as regards home, family or work, definitely does not follow the status quo in those areas. You will experience very profound feelings that can be very nourishing for your soul. However you must surrender to the wild flow of feeling connection that tends to leak out over the normal edges of what is acceptable. You may feel that your relationship stems from or is bound up in family or genes, so that it is greater than yourselves personally. Acceptance of your individual feelings is the key to happiness here.

True Lilith Square Venus:

You may have a conflict between your desires and attraction for each other and the deep emotions and sexuality that are released from being together. You may find that these more unconscious feelings disturb your aesthetic senses and harmony and need to be accepted and integrated. It is important to work towards acceptance of these more unconscious emotions and sexuality, if it is a high value to have that depth within the relationship. Repressing these feelings will only prove disruptive to the relationship.

True Lilith Trine Pluto:

You may take it for granted how easily your empowerment flows with the deep emotions and sexuality that surface within the relationship. Your needs for change and transformation integrate smoothly with this level that is normally unconscious. It is easy to accept and integrate, so that you are capable of intimacy together on a profound, soulful level.

True Lilith Trine True Node:

You may take it for granted how easily you integrate the destiny of the relationship with the deep emotions and sexuality that surface within the relationship. Your fate together integrates easily together with this level that is normally unconscious. It is easy to accept and integrate, so that your destiny is on a profound, soulful level.

True Lilith Semisextile Mars:

You are easily able to energize each other from a deep emotional and sexual level. You are also aware of what motivates you both, in this profound, soul, instinctual dimension.

Chapter 5: Background of the Relationship

"My mother used to say that there are no strangers, only friends you haven't met yet. She's now in a maximum security twilight home in Australia." Dame Edna Everage (1934)

"Nobody sees a flower - really - it is so small it takes time - we haven't time - and to see takes time, like to have a friend takes time." Georgia O'Keeffe (1887 - 1986)

"Don't accept rides from strange men, and remember that all men are strange." Robin Morgan

We have many different types of relationships. These days we have the luxury of being able to be very creative with all our relationships and can work together to make them suit us as individuals. We have grown beyond automatically relating from predetermined roles. This is truly wonderful as it has the great advantage that we then are challenged to stay conscious whilst we interact with each other.

It is important in any kind of relationship to have friendship as the underlying foundation. The origins of the word friend come from the Old English word "freond" which meant "to love, to favor" and is related to the Old English word "freo" which meant "free". This is a clue as to how to make all our relationships successful, to honor each other's freedom as individuals and to love each other. This can be applied to all business and personal relationships if we want to achieve the highest expression of potential between others.

Jupiter in 1st or 7th house in composite chart:

This is a highly beneficial relationship as your involvement together really expands your horizons. There is a quality of enthusiasm in this partnership in that it boosts your confidence as a couple. You have a strong sense of meaning and belief in being together. You feel blessed to be in this partnership and tend to share that with those around you. There may be a strong social context to this relationship so that it is inherent that you will benefit others by being together.

Chiron in 6th or 12th house in composite chart:

This relationship brings up vulnerabilities from past relationship wounds, as regards work, service and healing. This relationship may have a very strong focus on accepting and integrating the very physical vulnerabilities that are exposed as part of your human condition. This is an unequal relationship and the service that you have been brought together to do, may provide both the vulnerability and then the acceptance and wholeness that results.

Uranus in 6th or 12th house in composite chart:

This relationship will focus on individual work, service and healing together. You both may be involved in altruistic work together and that would be a very positive use. You may also be focused on alternate healing together and any inequality that is indicated by this position can be challenged by more positive manifestations such as these. This relationship will not be routine and mundane patterns will not survive whilst together. Humanitarian concerns as regards your spiritual path may also be very important.

Neptune in 2nd or 8th house in composite chart:

The relationship's values will be focused more on ideals and the subtle connection between you. The intuition and empathy that you share will be the foundation that you build your trust and safety upon within this relationship. However you will need to be careful that material security issues are not avoided in favor of the spiritual. Both will need to be incorporated in some way. There may be a sense of insecurity if you are not clear and honest with one another, and it is also important that you are supportive rather than undermining.

Pluto in 6th or 12th house in composite chart:

This relationship has a fated sense of service that could profoundly change your lives. There is a need however to be very careful of the inequality and possibly imbalance of power, that exists within this relationship and not to misuse power in any way. It will be important to focus your attention on the love you share, rather than resort to control or manipulation of each other, or those around you. You can receive profound healing through this relationship and so it is important to empower each other. Of course there are some relationships where we are brought together to help and empower each other, and this would be a positive manifestation.

Jupiter Sesquiquadrate Neptune:

Your sensitivities may worry your sense of optimism for your future together. Others may appear to heighten this; however you will have to resolve it by creative clarity about the subtle level and the integrity of your partner. It is important to clarify and honor your boundaries, so that you can learn and grow through the relationship.

Chiron Opposition Uranus:

There may be a tendency to swing back and forth between accepting your vulnerabilities and independence and freedom. You may experience a tension between your needs to be free and for acceptance of past relationship wounds that emerge when you are together. This may be triggered in others when you are together. You have great healing capacity through your appreciation of the truth as you experience it as a couple.

Ceres in 5th or 11th house in composite chart:

This relationship has a strong caring focus for creative projects or children. You are able to nourish from a deep well within your hearts, and your hearts are certainly pivotal in how you care for each other and others. You look after yourselves by having fun, through entertainment or sports or just through the sheer joy of Love. This could certainly be a very fulfilling, great Love! However if this love together is threatened, then you will experience the opposite face of devastation and loss. This will be a heart-breaking loss!

Juno in 5th or 11th house in composite chart:

This relationship has clearly defined roles within the love you share, there is a real comrade in arms quality to the relationship. You may also be involved in creative projects or with children which will require some sort of control. Most relationships need some kind of structure to afford reliability and to build trust. However the heart requires passion and creative expression as well. It is important not to resort to game playing and deception. It is human nature to "want to have it all", much better to be honest and build this into your roles together.

Vesta in 4th or 10th house in composite chart:

This relationship has a strong focus on working to build a structure together whether home, family or business. Together you have the capacity for a sense of devotion and hard work in achieving your goals. You will be able to create a sense of home and warmth whatever you build together and so too with a business. There may be a sense of support from the past or family or your roots. Be careful not to distract yourselves with work and service when matters of the heart may need to be addressed with love and/or passion.

Psyche in 5th or 11th house in composite chart:

This relationship is focused on spiritually integrating your heart's desires and "inner child" with your love and sexual relationship. Any vulnerable issues around creativity, children, fun, entertainment and sport that surface will be brought to consciousness. Within this relationship you have real sensitivity towards each other and a potential of psychic integration of the heart challenges you face individually. There is a great sense of meaning in being together that feeds your soul on a higher level.

Sappho in 6th or 12th house in composite chart:

Work and service are the focus of your passionate romantic and sexual attraction. You have deep value for each and the work or health issues you share. You will be creative, if not poetic in how you serve each other and those around you. The only difficulty here is that this is not a relationship of equals so it may be important that whoever is in service, get their needs met in creative ways outside the relationship. Then this will not be undermining to the relationship. As a couple you possibly support others in preparation for the challenges of formalizing partnerships through marriage or some other official bond.

Eros in 3rd or 9th house in composite chart:

You focus your thinking and communicating on your erotic connection together. You have sex and passion on your minds and can turn each other by "dirty talk" or fantasies. You may be involved in writing, speaking, publishing or media work about erotic love or the erotic love you share. Sexual passion is in your creative expression and breathes life into the relationship through your minds.

Cupido in 2nd or 8th house in composite chart:

This relationship is focused on building trust and security on the physical attraction and chemistry that you have together. You both value each other's physical beauty and this is an important factor in your sexual relationship. Your security is built on your attractiveness as a couple. You need to be careful to not be caught too much in the superficial look of the relationship. It is also important to attend to the heart of your love and care for each other.

Amor in 3rd or 9th house in composite chart:

In this relationship your thinking and communicating will be focused on the unconditional love that you share and how to develop that together. You may talk about the ideal aspects of loving each other and the boundaries between you that contribute to loving each other. You may also become involved in speaking, lecturing, writing, publishing and media that is focused on ideal love in relationships. You like to learn how to keep the love flowing so you would be able to teach each other and those around you. This could be a very creative, even poetic relationship.

Aphrodite in 6th or 12th house in composite chart:

The fated quality to your love has brought you both together for work, service or health issues. Your work may also involve art and beauty. There is a special magic that draws you together for these purposes, however you this is not an equal fated relationship. One of you may feel drawn by love to help your partner, and obviously this is appropriate for some kinds of relationships. However if this is the case, it would serve you well to make sure that your needs are served outside the relationship due to the inequality.

Ceres Conjunction Mars:

You care for and support each other through activity, sexual expression and work in this serious relationship. You like to do things to express your care and promote an atmosphere of abundance in response to your needs. You may feed or care for each other as a way to turn each other on and promote sexual desire. Your sexual life may also be inspired by fears of the potential loss of the relationship and you will certainly do what needs to be done to ensure against this experience. You will definitely have a luscious sex life together, as it will be a means of feeling safe and nurtured.

Ceres Trine Venus:

You are easily drawn and attracted to each other and know how to care and support each other within this serious relationship. Remarkably, you can both promote desire and love in each other as well as nurture. This means that the relationship has a healthy and easy flow of balance care and love. Also fears of loss of the relationship are not overwhelming, so they do not dampen your desire for each other.

Juno Opposition Moon:

You may swing from feelings of comfort and discomfort in this personal relationship, which is possibly marriage. At times, due to instability of feelings you may find that there is not enough consistency in your roles and responsibilities within the relationship. Clarity of boundary issues will be important in establishing a sense of emotional commitment and loyalty together. Whoever identifies with being the more receptive partner will recognize this feeling conflict.

Juno Opposition Mars:

You share some sort of contract or bond, possibly marriage or business that focuses on work, activities or sexual expression. You are bonded to be together but you may find it challenging to integrate your sexuality or energy output at times. Consistency regarding roles and responsibilities may tend to swing between you and this can cause a dissipation of energies and action. Others may become involved in this dynamic within the relationship, and if so make sure that you are clear about your boundaries together. You will then need to acknowledge and honor your boundaries to ensure safety and trust within the relationship.

Juno Square Neptune:

You have difficulty integrating your subtle, soul link with the contract or bond you share, whether marriage or business. You are bonded together but there seems to be inherent differences in your boundary issues. The main focus in this relationship needs to be on identifying, acknowledging and honoring your boundaries, with compassion and understanding. You can respond with empathy to building trust in each other, by developing your roles and responsibilities so that your loyalty and commitment is guaranteed.

Juno Trine Saturn:

This is a stable, committed and important relationship which easily incorporates the contract or bond that you share, whether marriage or business. There is a real flow with your responsibilities and duties and your commitment and loyalty to each other. You can clearly identify your boundaries and honor them so that trust can build together. You can easily go the long haul with each other and feel balanced in your sense of duty, so that you really feel well matched.

Vesta Square Saturn:

There are challenges within this relationship with your commitment and loyalty and the drive to experience a higher dimension of Love. Trust is founded from the everyday ability to respond to each other's needs and not just from experiencing altered states of consciousness through surrendering to service and work. You will need to build a foundation in the mundane along with the spiritual. You will also need to identify, clarify and honor each other's boundaries to facilitate the experience of transformation that is possible on the higher level. Overwork can also be a problem at times and it is important to maintain a healthy balance in this area too.

Vesta Trine Uranus:

It is easy to foster a sense of honoring each other as individuals in your experience with work, service and sexual expression. There is a real flow and ability to integrate any sense of dissolution of your egos, as you both aim for higher experiences of Love. You love to be creative in how you express these areas and how you come together as a couple. It is easy to be interdependent rather co-dependent within the relationship. You love to be involved in a very individual expression of work and sexuality and the relationship will define itself easily, as one of a kind.

Vesta Trine Asc.:

This significant relationship flows with a strong work ethic and focus on your sexual expression. Through the profundity and depth of your sexual expression and/or work relationship, you can both easily experience transformation as individuals. Your boundaries can easily be dissolved and this can be very healing as you achieve an experience of higher Love. A sense of freedom and dissolving of the ego can flow. You enjoy having a creative relationship that is not of a traditional model, encouraging individuality and freedom and the search for the higher truth of Love. You will both easily touch others through these areas and trigger spiritual evolution.

Psyche Conjunct Moon:

You both feel very comfortable, as you develop personally through this relationship. You experience a real soul connection together and are able to understand yourselves through the alchemic projection within the relationship. There is also a great commitment; a willingness to go the distance and create a foundation of stability within the relationship. This stability however always needs to be kept alive & awake by incorporating your individual paths. The more receptive partner may identify much more with the comfortable feeling of personal development.

Psyche Conjunct Mars:

There is a strong caring drive within this relationship and which is a focus of your energies and sexual expression. You are asked to deal with any frustration of desire by focusing on the Love you share, rather than will to power. When you accomplish this you will find that your personal development grows incrementally, whilst you are together. You are challenged to transform your individual desires and urges through your sexuality or projects that you are involved with together.

Psyche Square Neptune:

The intuitive and empathic link that you share challenges you to develop personally within this relationship. The subtle level may be a source of lack of awareness and misunderstanding as individuals, and this is reflected through the relationship. You need to treat the relationship as a sacred container for transformation and empowerment rather than allow confusion. You are also challenged to raise your Love to a higher more spiritual level and develop in consciousness and awareness together.

Psyche Sextile Saturn:

You have opportunities to be committed to personal development together which forms a strong foundation within the relationship. Those around you may help you to work on any issues that are triggered by being together. You can develop awareness of love and relating if you are willing to be creative with your individual desires and values in the relationship. There are also options for your boundary issues and vulnerabilities that emerge, to help strengthen the relationship.

Sappho Conjunction Uranus:

This relationship stands in its own right and you honor and value each other as individuals. This makes for a detached emotional stance that supports a good communication and friendship. You both share similar aesthetic values and tastes and this is creatively incorporated into the relationship. It is also an exciting sexual relationship which is cultivated by your romantic and passionate expression. You will be changed as individuals within this relationship, by the profundity and sharing that is available so just be creative!

Sappho Conjunction Pluto:

This is a profoundly deep relationship, where you will empower yourselves through romantic and passionate expression. You are a powerful force together and would be good friends as well as lovers. Whilst together you will undergo transformation through the relationship and learn a lot about Love and relating. You share similar values and tastes in the arts and this would be a very important aspect of the relationship. You have a strong sexual drive which is activated by your romantic notions and conversations and possibly even poetry?

Sappho Conjunction Asc.:

This is an important partnership as you are both romantically and passionately entwined and also good friends. You like to converse on the subject of Love and relating and may touch others in this regards, as well. You have a deep appreciation for each other and this appreciation may even be expressed through some form of creative expression. You are really facilitated in bonding in the partnership. You like to share things together and enjoy being a couple.

Sappho Opposition Mercury:

You swing backwards and forwards between identification as comrades in arms, where you are able to share with each other your ideas and notions about love and relating, and not. At times your communication can be quite romantic, passionate and sexual; you know how to turn each other on, but may suffer from bad timing! You may advise others as regards relationships and love or at the very least write romantic poetry to each other. Sometimes also you can include your deeper, darker soul levels that emerge within the relationship, and then this can be used as fuel for the fire of your Love.

Sappho Opposition Chiron:

This relationship swings from being highly sexual and accepting of any vulnerability that you have as individuals, and at other times not. You can be good friends and communicate, when you are clear and honest in this highly romantic and passionate connection. In fact any boundary issues and therefore vulnerabilities, can become integral to the romance of being together, and cultivates a deep appreciation for each other. You may even include these human vulnerabilities of the body or feelings in your romantic exchanges, such as poetry.

Eros Trine Mercury:

You easily talk and think about your erotic connection that flows, and in fact your minds trigger the eroticism. It is easy to talk dirty and you know how to turn each other on! In fact your ideas and conversations tend to focus easily on the experience of your great Love and the desire and lust can make it extremely intimate. You are both open to accepting your vulnerability of the physical, human body and empowering and transforming yourselves through your depth of thought and conversation!

Eros Trine Jupiter:

You easily find a great sense of meaning in being together through your great Love! You are open to share an extremely erotic attraction and desire for each other and will be touched and transformed deeply. You easily grow and learn from your surrender to Love and lust, when you are together. You may take it for granted how joyful you feel about life by sharing in this exchange of eroticism. You can integrate your individuality easily, as you recognize that this contributes to the excitement and magnetism that you feel together. Your ideas and communications can be extremely erotic, sexual and profoundly intimate. You may even write or talk about eroticism or lust.

Cupido Opposition Neptune:

You swing back and forth between feeling subtly connected to each other by your similar values and ideals in art and beauty, and not. Your partner can reflect more unconscious or hidden parts of yourself and that is what can be attractive and irresistible. Therefore it is important to honor this strong attraction, both light and dark. At times you intuitively seem to know what looks right as a couple and you may find a whole spiritual path together. If not, then design and harmony can be very important and you can possess a knowing about what feels right when you are together.

Cupido Square Mars:

You are in conflict because you can be highly turned on by each other's physical attractiveness and by how you appear as a couple. The challenge is that this can be extremely sexy, but you will also need to honor each other's boundaries and integrity. There can be a rather strong focus on pursuing desire for selfish reasons, rather than to further the relationship. You may also be in conflict as you put a lot of energy and drive into pursuing your emotional ideals and tastes in beauty and art. The challenge is to make this a highly individual and creative sexual relationship, which you will forge in your own right.

Cupido Trine Pluto:

You are easily and intensely drawn to each other's beauty and present as a powerfully attractive couple. There is a real flow to your likes and dislikes which can be black and white and your ideals may revolve around the higher power of Love rather than will to power. In fact as a couple you may fascinate others, no more than you both feel fascinated. You easily share similar strong tastes in beauty and art. Being together can transform you as regards beauty; and you still find it easy not to be too obsessed with the superficial. You are also able to satisfy your unconscious emotional needs and fantasies, without damaging the integrity of your partner. This relationship is a turn on as your focus is on the relationship, not just individual desire.

Cupido Trine True Node:

There is a real flow to how you feel compelled to be together, because of how great you look as a couple! You easily share similar tastes in beauty and art and this goes without saying. You easily match like two peas in a pod, like Romeo and Juliet? You feel easily drawn by each other's attractiveness. You have issues that need to be resolved and easy lessons to be learnt, whilst you are together. These issues will tend to be focused on the attraction between you, which comes from your deep instinctual soul level and draws you out of your separation in your search for your inner beauty as it appears in your partner.

Amor Square Moon:

You are challenged with your comfort levels in this relationship, where you are trying to make ideal love real together. In the creative challenge to also satisfy deeper, more hidden emotional needs and desires, you will need to achieve a sense of union on a higher level. In this union you both need to identify your individual boundaries and honor and accept them. Any emotional vulnerability that emerges from past relationship wounds, needs to be accepted within this ideal love. Real love can spring from openness to your humanity and you should strive to be emotionally generous in the presence of each other's past relationship wounds. As the more receptive partner, you may identify much more with the conflict in ideal love.

Amor Trine Uranus:

There is a real flow to this one of a kind relationship, where you have an ideal and perfect love together. You can both easily bring your own individuality and freedom needs to the relationship and develop it to creatively meet those needs. You also readily honor each other's boundaries. Real love can spring from openness to your humanity and you are both emotionally generous in the presence of each other's past relationship wounds. This is very much an individual relationship and you readily allow each other freedom to honor your own ideals which awakens the power and intensity in the relationship.

Amor Trine Asc.:

You easily share this important partnership, where you are bringing your ideal and perfect love into real life. You can easily accept past relationship wounds that emerge and any emotional vulnerability. Also darker, more unconscious sensual desires and sexual expression can be readily included. You can identify each other's boundaries and honor and acknowledge those, to make for a healthy relationship. You may be identified as a perfect couple by those around you, as you keep your ideal vision of Love alive together. Those around you may be touched by your love and given hope that heaven can be on earth in relationship.

Aphrodite Conjunct Pluto:

You will both be changed by the depth and intensity of this 'lightning rod' love that you share. Your emotional needs for attention can be addressed within this relationship, as you both feel focused together. You can learn and grow from this surrender to passion and love. You share a profound intimacy and through this you will define your roles within the relationship. Your sexual expression will be uplifting and motivating and may be hard to keep in balance.

Aphrodite Conjunct True Node:

You feel compelled to be together in this 'bolt out of the blue' fated love relationship. There are great lessons to be learnt together, as regards being intimate; both physically and via communication. As a couple, you may only have eyes for each other when together, and it can be quite intense and obsessive. You will also be challenged to be creative in developing this relationship in its own mold and to benefit from the depth and profundity that it offers. There is a clear sense of the roles within this partnership, albeit unusual or individual by ordinary standards.

Aphrodite Opposition Sun:

This is a profound meeting, where your "bolt out of the blue" fated relationship will be polarized with the purpose of being together. You are destined to be connected but at times you may find it challenging to integrate the relationship mission. You are challenged to be creative in developing this relationship in its own mold and to benefit from the depth and profundity that it offers. The more active partner may identify much more with the polarization with fate.

Chapter 6: Summary

*"Just because you love someone doesn't mean you have to be involved with them. Love is not a bandage to cover wounds."
Hugh Elliott, Standing Room Only weblog, February 16, 2004*

"The conception of two people living together for twenty-five years without having a cross word suggests a lack of spirit only to be admired in sheep." Alan Patrick Herbert

"Why is it so hard to find a soulmate? Because most of us are actually searching for egomates instead. We place the most limited and unloving aspect of our minds in charge of our search for love, and then wonder why we aren't succeeding. To the degree that we identify with this false sense of self, and operate on the basis of its limited point of view, we aren't looking for someone to love so much as recruiting fellow actors to take on supporting roles in a favorite melodrama."

Relationships can be challenging & sometimes seem more trouble than they are worth. We are challenged to live our best life & to be the best that we can be! These days going down the relationship path, consciously, can be more profound & enlightening than getting thyself into a nunnery! We see each other through the mirror & reflection in each other's eyes, of who we are & what we are doing or not doing! We cannot hide or delude ourselves when we live in the light of our partner's eyes.

So if we choose to take this path in life we are subject to all the gifts & joys of sharing, companionship, care & love that relating can bring. We are also brought more fully into conscious attention to our own souls & personal development. We honor & respect each other's boundaries & separation so that we can unite with each other in love & compassion.

On a bigger scale the microcosm of our personal & business relationships are the seed of our community, our country & our planet. We have all been brought together under the banner of humanity & our spiritual challenge is learning to live with ourselves firstly & then others in a harmonious, peaceful & respectful way! When seen from this perspective, whatever needs to be addressed in our immediate relationships, will provide a good basis for a better planet!

May these reflections help serve that purpose!

Romantic and Sexual Attraction Medium Score (107):

This relationship has a reasonable level of romantic & sexual attraction & that means that you would enjoy being together. This is a good foundation for any kind of relationship that you wish to develop together.

Good Communication, Problem Solving Low Score (7):

This relationship can easily get into difficulties due to lack of communication. This means that you will constantly have to be aware of the danger of the two of you going in different directions. Of course this means that the relationship may become redundant if neither of you are paying attention to this inadequacy. If you have an investment in this relationship, you could learn some good communication skills. You must also keep very vigilant about what is happening for both of you most of the time.

Longevity & Commitment High Score (173):

This relationship has an excellent ability to go the distance & be a stable foundation for both of you. You can rely on each other & will easily be able to face challenges or difficulties. In fact these will only increase your commitment.

Sense of Fate & Destiny Together Low Score (32):

There is hardly any feeling of destiny or compulsion to this relationship but it could still serve you on the day to day level. You will not feel driven to learn & act in certain ways when you are together. As a result you can make of this relationship what you want or need.

Challenges & Weaknesses Low Score (60):

This relationship does not have major areas of stress or weakness. It is reasonably easy to keep your attention on each other's needs & desires & steer in a positive direction. There is a reasonable amount of consistency & comfort being together & it does not require a lot of work.

"Love is the most difficult and dangerous form of courage. Courage is the most desperate, admirable, and noble kind of love." Delmore Schwartz
